CAREER OBJECTIVE

Seeking an adjunct professor position to teach Psychology and related fields to students and provide support to the management policies and procedures.

QUALIFICATIONS SUMMARY

I have been an Adjunct Faculty for the past 4 years in the Behavioral Sciences Department at Antelope Valley College with a strong commitment to diversity and cultural competency. I have successful experience teaching in blended programs with both on-ground and online components. Additionally, experienced Child Welfare Leader with a heart for improving organizational systems to support increasing hope and healing for children and families. Skilled in up-to-date learning and development trends that support improved organizational health and child welfare practice. I possess a Doctorate in Applied Clinical Psychology from The Chicago School of Professional Psychology in 2015, a Master's in Counseling Psychology (MFT track) from National University, and a Bachelor's in English from USC. I am license-eligible and approved for the California State Board of Psychology licensure examination. Through my prior teaching experience, I have been able to enrich courses by sharing theoretical and practical knowledge of the subject, encouraging direct application to the workplace within the field of Psychology for the appropriate degree level. In addition to my teaching experience, I have also worked in the capacity of a Correctional Clinical Psychologist at the California Department of Corrections for 5 years, earning my pre-and post-doctoral clinical licensure hours. I have exemplary professional experience working within a forensic setting, law enforcement, social services military, and governmental positions. Additionally, I possess advanced computer knowledge (email, outlook, Canvas, PowerPoint, internet searches, research in library databases). I have extensive experience with Canvas and Blackboard.
