Francis T. Cullen, Robert Agnew & Pamela Wilcox (2013). Criminological Theory: Past to Present: Essential Readings, 5th Edition, Oxford University Press.

Additional readings (e.g., articles, reports) will be posted on Blackboard. Regarding scientific journal articles, Bryan Wildenthal Memorial Library of SRSU has an extensive database infrastructure. You can get detailed information and advising from libraries website <https://library.sulross.edu/#> Once you logged in to your Sul Ross Account on Blackboard you should be automatically connected to the library webpage as well. Thus, you can browse the online databases of the University and reach the articles on the additional reading list.

Syllabus is subject to updates and changes, always look to the course announcements and reminders for updates. The faculty member reserves the right to amend this syllabus as needed.

Course Description

This seminar will examine the development of criminological theory from its earliest precursors to as close to the present, through a comprehensive reader that will expose students to both classic and contemporary theories of crime. The choice of readings is aimed at grounding the student in the foundational strengths of criminology as well as exploring its weaknesses and more contemporary directions of the field. Our approach will be both critical and historical in examining the implications of these theoretical perspective in which they emerged. This seminar is organized around five sections which will provide a framework for understanding, critically evaluating, and applying criminological theory and research to policy.

Course Learning Objectives

This seminar, like other graduate seminars, will help you make the transition from student to independent researcher/scholar. At the end of this seminar, you will be able to:

- Understand the importance of criminological theory in explaining deviance in the society,
- Understand the strengths and limitations of certain theories.
- Identify and evaluate criminological theories by comparing and contrasting among values, ideas and beliefs.
- Communicate effectively in written English as exemplified by proper use of APA citation format, following writing guidelines and writing clearly and concisely.

Class Attendance/Participation

Given that this is a fully online course; you cannot attend class in a traditional sense. However, students are expected to log into the class at the earliest opportunity to check the class website every day for announcements. Weekly reaction papers and quizzes are a required part of class participation.

Reaction Papers (10 Points Each)

You will write a reaction paper every week. Each paper must be 1 page and 1.5-spaced in 12-point Calibri font. Reaction paper will be related to the reading of the week. When there is more than one reading assignment, then you should read all required readings but write reaction paper on one of them. A reaction paper is not a summary; rather, it should include your perspective, ideas, and critique about the reading. The due dates for the reaction papers will be Sunday 11:00 pm each week.

Weekly Quizzes (10 Points Each)

You will take a quiz for every week to measure the knowledge of the week's required readings. The questions will be posted Friday 1:00 pm and due date will be Sunday 11:00 pm every week.

Examination (200 Points)

There will be a midterm exam which will cover the assigned chapters and other relevant material covered in the course up to the date of the examination. The exam will have multiple-choice and/or true-false questions. The midterm exam will be worth 200 points. No make-up test will be given, unless an uncontrollable emergency or illness arises (written proof required).

Final Paper (200 Points)

You will write a final paper on any of the subjects covered in this seminar. You will submit a written proposal by the end of the 4th week outlining your plan and intended subject. You will then continue writing your paper after my approval.

The paper should;

- a) be 10 to 15 pages (not including cover page and list of references)
- b) be typed, double-spaced, 1 inch margins, 12-point Calibri font,
- c) include at least five scholarly citations (not website articles, wikipedia, news agencies, magazines, and etc.),
- d) be written according to APA formatting and citation style.

A plagiarism detection software (SafeAssign) is used in this course. SafeAssign will detect and report all instances of plagiarism including where the student copied and pasted directly from a source. Students will receive a grade of "0" in these instances, and possibly fail the course. Your weekly reaction papers and final paper will be submitted through SafeAssign. A detailed instruction for using this software will be uploaded on BlackBoard.

Academic Integrity

Sul Ross State University students are responsible for reading, understanding, and abiding by the "Sul Ross Student Code of Conduct." Student Code of Conduct, Responsibilities, Procedures, and Rights are found in the University website.

Sul Ross State University and the instructor of this course both place a high priority on the academic integrity of their student scholars. As a result, all institutional guidelines and instructional policies concerning academic integrity will be strictly and uniformly enforced with all students regardless of context.

Academic integrity includes, but is not limited to, the following activities: cheating, plagiarism, collusion, fabrication, obtaining an unfair advantage, and falsifying academic records. In addition, academic dishonesty can include both actions and omissions to act in regards to academic exercises and activities.

Cheating is defined here as:

the obtaining of information (electronic or otherwise) during an examination, the unauthorized use of books, notes, or other sources of information prior to or during an examination, the unauthorized use of books, the removal of faculty examination materials, the alteration of documents or records, or actions identifiable as occurring with the intent to defraud or use under false pretenses.

Collusion is defined here as:

helping other students engage in acts of academic dishonesty, whether the student involved obtains any direct academic advantage from these acts.

Plagiarism is defined here as:

the submission of the ideas, words, or artistic productions of another, without giving due credit or when attempting to falsely represent them as one's own.

APA style

This course will use the American Psychological Association (APA) formatting and style guide for all written assignments. If you have any questions or concerns regarding the use of APA a number of resources have been provided below. Please note that all external sources must be appropriately cited. A failure to do so constitutes plagiarism and is a violation the course academic honesty standards. See www.citationmachine.net and <http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/560/01/> for help with APA.
