COURSE DESCRIPTION: This course is a study of the major schools of thought that have influenced macroeconomics. Topics include the works of Adam Smith and Classical Economics, John Maynard Keynes and Government intervention into the economy, fiscal policy, monetary policy and the works of Joseph Schumpeter and creative destruction.

COURSE OBJECTIVES: Throughout this course, each student will have the opportunity to

- gain an understanding of key macroeconomic principles
- apply economic analysis to real-world business problems and
- acquire knowledge of various models of aggregate economic behavior

METHOD OF EVALUATION: Each student will earn a grade in the course based on one 15-20 page research paper due at the end of the semester. The paper will be graded on a scale of 0 -100 and final letter grades will be assigned according to the follow scale: 100-85=A, 84-70=B, 70-60=C, 59 and below=F. The paper is due by April 30, 2020. A grade of I will be issued only as a last resort in accordance with university policy.

ATTENDANCE AND DROP POLICY: All students are expected to remain actively engaged in this online course via email, Zoom video conferences and Blackboard. Students desiring to drop this course should do so through the office of the registrar by the official drop date – April 3, 2020. Any student who disrupts the educational process of this class or who is found engaging in academic dishonesty will receive a failing final grade and will be barred from further participation in the class.
