Course Description

The readings and viewings for this course will introduce students to theatrical texts, knowledge of theatrical principles and styles, and address a range of contemporary social issues. This course teaches students how to become an educated audience member and to appreciate the significance that theatre holds in all cultural contexts.

Students also get the opportunity to analyze and design a unique presentation, by using the basic theatrical elements learned in this class.

This course is an introduction to theatre and does not require prior theatrical experience.

Materials Required:

- 1) A working e-mail account. You are required to check your Sul Ross email account daily for potential messages from the instructor.
- 2) A working Blackboard account. The instructor will post assignments and reminders to Blackboard.
- 3) The instructor will provide required reading materials.

Course Objectives

Among other topics, students will:

- Articulate a working vocabulary of theatre terminology
- Evaluate a performance for its formal qualities
- Demonstrate beginner knowledge of the rehearsal and performance process
- Articulate basic theatrical design principles
- Demonstrate beginner knowledge of script analysis
- Articulate the jobs of different types of theatre professionals
- Analyze the role that theatre plays in contemporary culture, particularly the ways in which theatre addresses issues of gender, race, ethnicity, sexuality, and class.

Grading System

This class uses an accumulative points system. There is no averaging of the assignment results. There is no dropping the lowest score. It is a simple accumulation of points, the more points you earn the better your grade. The syllabus tells you the value of each assignment and the target ranges for the semester grades. This allows the student to follow their grade point total and calculate exactly how many points are needed to score the desired grade.

Extra Credit work is NOT allowed, there are bonus points built into the system.

Written Assignments

Required Assignments: You are required to write several essays and abbreviated research papers for this class. Proper citations for reference materials is required. ALL assignments must be turned in either before or on the day they are due.

Late work receives an automatic 25%-point deduction!!

Format: All written assignments must be typed, in 12-point type, Times New Roman font, double-spaced, and free of errors. You will be graded on both the content of your ideas and the clarity and accuracy of your writing

Academic Integrity: The University has a Code of Academic Integrity, which prohibits, among other things, cheating on exams, plagiarizing papers or portions of papers, submitting the same paper for credit in two courses without authorization, buying papers, submitting fraudulent documents, forging signatures, and using unauthorized study aids (including old quizzes and exams). This class abides by that code.

Challenges: If you have a concern about a grade on an assignment you must present the graded assignment and one paragraph explaining your comments on the grade (including any supporting evidence) to the instructor no later than one week after the grade is posted. After one week, questions about grades will not be considered. This policy applies to ALL grades.
