Course Texts

In order to succeed in this course, you must read the course texts; not having texts does not constitute an excuse for not completing assignments. Buy, borrow, or rent them well ahead of schedule. The official Sul Ross bookstore always has copies available, but most texts can also be found on amazon, thrift books, abe books, etc.

Late Papers/Assignments

To pass the class you must successfully complete and turn in to me each assignment by the due date. If you fail to turn in any assignments, even one, you may earn an F for the course. Be prepared for electronic failure and complete assignments early when possible.

Grade Changes

Please discuss your grades with me during the semester. Once the semester is over and I have entered grades into the system I will not consider grade changes unless Blackboard shows that I, myself, miscalculated.

There is no extra credit. However, note that you may re-do any discussion post, or the Literary and Picturebook analysis assignments within two weeks of receiving feedback for the chance at a better grade. You lose the right to do so if you have plagiarized, or turned in an assignment late. You may not re-do the Final Essay or Final Exam because of their proximity to the end of the course.

Scholastic Honesty

All work submitted must be your own and must be written exclusively for this class; the use of sources must be appropriately, correctly, and consistently documented. Quotations, paraphrases, or summaries that are not documented and the use of papers written by others constitute plagiarism. A "0" will be earned for any assignment exhibiting signs of plagiarism.

These acts are considered plagiarism:

- (1) failing to cite direct wording and borrowed ideas,
- (2) failing to enclose borrowed language in quotation marks, and
- (3) failing to put summaries and paraphrases in your own words
- (4) using someone else's words or ideas as your own.

The assignment will receive a 0. A grade of "F" for the course can also be earned if the work exhibits any of these kinds of scholastic dishonesty.

Assignments

Powerpoints: Each week I will post a short lecture accompanied by a powerpoint on that week's topic. You should set aside time to watch these each week, and to take notes from them. They are not long but do contain important information for the course and texts.

Weekly Discussions: Each week you will post one discussion question for class before Friday at midnight. These discussion questions will need to be more than a yes or no, or basic plot points, but instead should spark in-depth discussions. Discussion questions should be accompanied by a relevant quote from the text. You do not need to answer the question, that is for your classmates to do.

You in turn will answer at least two classmates by Sunday at midnight.

Analysis Essays: Every couple of weeks you will be expected to take a number of texts and examine them for a theme. You may choose the theme (examples include: love, death, war, etc.) and compare and contrast how the theme is used in each text. There is one essay for picturebook (and comics) analysis, and another for fiction.

Final Essay: Choose a text that influenced you as a child or adolescent. Re-read that text with the skills you have learned in this course. Identify genre, era, purpose, and literary themes. Critically analyze the text as an academic, and as an older version of the person who was originally influenced. Answer the following questions: What did the text mean to you? Why? How did the text accomplish that? How does the text fit into the genealogy of C/YA that we have studied? Are there clear pedagogical aims in the text? If so, describe them. If not, what might some pedagogical aims be? Is there an underlying argument to the text? Were you aware of these aims and arguments the first time you read it?

Final Exam: This will be cumulative and will consist of short answer questions, multiple choice, and short essay answers. The only way to prepare for this is to have done all the reading!
