NOTE: READ this entire syllabus carefully and more than once to be sure you are understanding this course and the expectations!!!!

ED 5316 Diversity in Public Education is an overview of multicultural education. Students will gain an appreciation and understanding, from an educational leadership point of view, of the problems associated with educating the multicultural learner. Students will also gain an understanding of the need to design and support a curriculum that will benefit multicultural learners. Finally, by interacting with colleagues and the course professor through blackboard, students will gain practical knowledge of putting what they learn into practice.

Course Dates: This is a course which begins on July 7 (5), 2025 and ends August 1, 2025.

Required Textbooks:

Cushner, K, McClelland, A., Safford, P. (). Human diversity in Education (8th Edition). McGraw Hill. (ISBN: 0078110335).

Course Dates: This is an online, asynchronous course that begins on July 8 (5) and ends on August 12 (1). We will have no class meetings due to low enrollment, and there are recommended due dates for all assignments. Assignments are best submitted by the date listed in the course calendar. Late work will create issues for you in completing the course in a timely manner and all work should be submitted on time unless prior approval is granted by the professor. All assignments must be submitted on Blackboard. By way of information, I am officially retiring from the profession on July 31, and I am going to attempt to have all work by you submitted by the end of the on July 31. If at all possible, please have all work in to me by that date. If for some reason it is not possible for you to do so, please let me know so that arrangements can be made for you. I also always do all I can to have the course completed by July 31, regardless, because I want to have you away from university work in time to begin your new year at your respective schools without the distraction of completing coursework.

Attendance Policy: Participation and timely assignment completion are very important components of this course. Your Sul Ross e-mail and Blackboard Ultra Collaborate will be the official means of communicating for the course. . The University allows a maximum of 20% absences in a course before an instructor may drop a student for excessive absences. In this course, this policy is interpreted as failing to access the course in Blackboard for 3 consecutive days. Any student dropped for non-participation will receive an F in the course from which they are dropped. .

Course Objectives:

Primary

- 1 To gain an understanding of the notion of multicultural education in today's public schools.
- 2 To become familiar with current texts and research on the subject of multicultural education.
- 3 To appreciate the inherent academic enhancement of a multicultural setting.
- 4 To learn strategies for leading a campus of multicultural learners.
- 5 To gain an awareness of the need for understanding the issues surrounding multicultural education in a pluralistic environment.

Secondary

- 6 To improve communication skills through writing.
- 7 To become actively engaged in reading current articles on education.
- 8 To practice synthesis: lessons learned in one topic apply to related topics

Applicable Principal Competencies: In our pluralistic society, it is critical that principals understand multicultural learners and how to respond to their educational needs so that they and our society as a whole can compete in the world market.

- 1 Principal Competency 002 states the principal knows how to respond to diverse interests and needs of all members of the school community in order to promote success. Principal Competency 003 states that the principal will act with integrity, fairness, and in an ethical manner and legal manner. To be ethical and fair, a principal must, among other things, support a curriculum that is beneficial to all students.
- 2 Competency 005 states that the principal knows how to advocate, nurture, and sustain an instructional program and a campus culture that are conducive to student learning and staff professional growth. The principal knows how to: facilitate the development of a campus learning organization that supports instructional improvement and change through ongoing study of relevant research and best practice. The principal knows how to facilitate the implementation of sound, research-based instructional strategies, decisions, and programs in which multiple opportunities to learn and to be successful are available to all students.

Marketable Skills-Masters in Educational Leadership

1. students will develop writing skills for effective communication.
2. students will develop research skills to promote life-long learning.
3. students will demonstrate an understanding of diversity.

Program Learning Outcomes

The graduating student will demonstrate that he/she:

1. Has the ability and knowledge to create a culture model that promotes the campus vision; communicate and collaborate with all members of the school community; and act with integrity, fairness, and in an ethical and legal manner (School Community Leadership Domain).
2. Can design, implement, nurture, assess and evaluate curricula and strategic plans to improve performance of students and teachers (Instructional Leadership Domain).
3. Can lead and manage a school campus in relation to budgeting and personnel/resource utilization to ensure a safe and effective learning environment (Administrative Leadership Domain).

4. Principal Portfolio: Graduate students in the Region 14 General Masters program will know how to: prepare an electronic professional portfolio based on the SRSU model during all coursework and orally defend the portfolio with 80% accuracy in the Portfolio Defense.

Course Assignments: The primary assignment is to read the textbook and supplement your learning from the Internet links provided with the course and from independent reading. All written assignments must be posted through the Blackboard component available at www.sulross.edu. All assignments must be completed using Windows 2010 or later. You will find instructions for each assignment under ASSIGNMENTS, on Blackboard. You might not agree with everything in the text but your assignments will be graded more on the thought that you put into your responses and not because they are correct or incorrect.

Assignments must be grammatically correct. Points will be deducted for poor grammar and for spelling errors. After the assignment is graded you are able to click on the grade in Blackboard to read my comments on the assignment.

Submittal Requirements: Title your files appropriately and submit them through Blackboard. All assignments MUST be submitted as an attached file using the .doc or .docx file format or PDF. No other file format can be accepted. You may not submit your assignment by typing the response in the small box provided on the assignment submittal page or by emailing them directly to the instructor. Assignments emailed to the professor will NOT be accepted or graded!!!!

All submittals must comply with the APA Publication Manual (6th Edition). Before submitting, have someone review your formatting, especially the citations and references. Use Times New Roman #12 font with one-inch margins on all sides. The cover page (for essays) or the heading (for case studies) should contain your name, the date, the course number, and the assignment name. Center a title for each assignment just below the header. Double space throughout the assignment and there is no need to include the scenario with your submission for the case studies. Avoid using contractions and slang when writing the scenarios. Each case study should be about two pages in length. (Please note that Article/Book reviews/critiques do NOT have a cover page, and the bibliography for each is inserted at the BEGINNING of the review, after the student heading and before the text of the narrative you write begins.)

If all references do not fit conveniently on the bottom of the last page of your paper, you must put them together on a separate page. Some assignments will not require references while others will. If a reference is used, be sure to properly document every paper, every time.

Grading: Each Chapter assignment should be submitted no later than midnight of the due date. In order to keep the grading fair for all students, late assignments arriving prior to midnight of the next assignment due date will be accepted but the assignment could be worth fewer points. The final course grade will be assigned according to this scale:

90-100 points-A
80- 89 points-B
70-79 points- C
Below 70 points-F
