Purpose of the Course

Students are expected to work independently with one or more external supervisors, mentors, or directors to complete a 'special project' within the practicum/internship setting. Evidence of progress will be demonstrated by job readiness (e.g. interview skills practice), career development (e.g. updated resume), and application of knowledge (e.g. oral presentation). Consent of a faculty supervisor and Department Chair may be required for enrollment.

Course Description

The Advanced Practicum in Kinesiology is designed to provide a cumulative learning experience that will prepare graduate students for career advancement in kinesiology or other health related fields.

Course Student Learning Objectives Upon successful completion of this course students will:

1. Evaluate career opportunities and develop a plan for prospective career advancement
2. Apply knowledge of health and human performance principles (e.g. applied physiology, nutrition, group dynamics, health behavior, sports ethics, research, etc.) or sports administration principles (e.g. leadership, management, marketing, finance & sales, facility management, group dynamics, law, research, etc.) as a special project within a professional setting.
3. Create and deliver an oral presentation appropriate to audience needs and expectations (e.g. recruiters, job panels, peers, supervisors, or board members).
4. Critique professional communication style and tone
5. Project personal credibility and professionalism

LEARNING GOALS & ACTIVITIES (PER NUMBERED LEARNING OUTCOME ABOVE)

1. Submit updated resume with cover letter and letter of recommendation; identify any required certifications or memberships to improve attractiveness as employee.
2. Develop and complete a 'special project' with external supervisors
3. Plan, create, and deliver a 20-30-minute presentation to appraise practicum setting, special project, and job readiness; demonstrate oral skills and application of knowledge through answers to faculty questions
4. Watch video on job-related interview skills and submit sample answers to questions
5. Score at or above 80th percentile from supervisor's evaluation

PROGRAM LEARNING OUTCOMES & MARKETABLE SKILLS

This course is aligned with the following program learning outcomes & marketable skills:

HHP Content Knowledge: Students in the HHP program will demonstrate content knowledge in exercise physiology, nutrition, sports law, tests and measurements, research methods, motor learning, group dynamics and health and human behavior necessary for successful performance in their field.

SAP Content Knowledge: Students in the SAP program will demonstrate content knowledge in sports leadership, sports law, sports management, research methods, sports finance, group dynamics, sport marketing, and facility management necessary for successful performance in their field.

Critical Thinking/Problem Solving: Exercise sound reasoning to analyze issues, make decisions, and overcome problems. The individual is able to obtain, interpret, and use knowledge, facts, and data in this process, and may demonstrate originality and inventiveness.

Communications: Articulate thoughts and ideas clearly and effectively in written and oral forms to persons inside and outside of the organization. The individual has public speaking skills; is able to express ideas to others; and can write/edit memos, letters, and complex technical reports clearly and effectively.

‘SPECIAL PROJECT’ DESCRIPTION

The HHP and SAP advanced practicum requires more than a typical internship; it requires the student to plan and implement a project in which the knowledge gained throughout the HHP coursework is uniquely applied within a desired professional setting. Students should consider this as a pilot student to a more robust thesis project. Students should expect to spend about 10-20hrs/week for at least 6 weeks to complete the special project requirements. The following provides some example project scenarios:

- If you are a teacher/coach you could request additional duties to support a special project within that setting including (but not limited to): designing a motivational program for high school football players; improving film reviewing methods; evaluation of coaching duties, etc.).
- If your career is focused on applied physiology or work in a clinical setting, you could organize an internship setting that supports a special project: e.g. research and design an updated training plan, plan a research study or specific data collection strategy for your employer, etc.
- If you are more interested in sports or athletic administration, you can request additional duties at your current job or find a new location to support a special project in that setting (e.g. develop a risk management plan for new facility, collecting financial data to revise budget, focus on staff retention, etc.)

Importantly, our goal is to engage the student in higher level thinking to develop a special project with their chosen site supervisor. In doing so, it is also our emphasis that the student develops a positive mentor-mentee relationship with the site supervisor which can prove to be valuable throughout phases of career advancement.

To this end, the evaluation of a special project will be based on the student’s ability to synthesize key principles of health and human performance, seek and obtain site supervisor approval, and present this plan to HHP/SAP faculty and peers. In this way, we hope that the student and site supervisor can both gain unique insight into updated health and human performance principles that both benefit the student’s future career and the job sites mission.

Students can and should discuss ideas for their special project using the Blackboard Discussion “Pre-Approval” thread throughout the first term of the semester. This is a peer- and –instructor led discussion; students should regularly engage in discussion to support other students to finalize project outcomes.
