Course Description

This capstone course is intended to allow students to demonstrate developed proficiency in research and analysis through producing an original analytic, self-reflective piece of writing, as well as in assessing, gathering, and presenting copies of two significant scholarly papers (or other forms of university work most indicative of their pursuits) for consideration and evaluation. Finally, students will complete a series of daily activities meant to review their academic experiences and future aspirations. The prerequisite for the course is that students are seniors in good standing (i.e. 90 sch completed) in the final term before graduation.

Course Expectations

The course will be assessed upon a portfolio compiled during our term and submitted under the assignments (found in course content) tab. The following assignments will be found on the SRSU Blackboard site for the course. The portfolio will consist of the following items:

Journal

Elements—The portfolio elements will be brief essays (500 words each) assignments answering to prompts. Some elements depart from narratives in the forms of assignments such as creating resumes. The element prompts will be numbered and found in the announcements in the BB course. Thus, it is important to check the course announcements consistently to keep up with the course. It will be turned in and assessed once, at the end of term. (50% weight)

Exemplary Coursework—You will choose two significant scholarly works from coursework achieved at Sul Ross. The work should have derived from a junior- or senior-level courses. Research and other types of significant writings are recommended. In order to depart from the recommended genre, please consult Dr. Payne (lbutler@sulross.edu). The scholarly work should demonstrate your ability to successfully navigate and present a given topic using appropriate and varied research or other scholarly support (i.e. sources which are cited according to the documentation style used in the subject area of the paper in the style of APA for subjects such as psychology and criminal justice, MLA for English, CBE for biology, and so on). (25% weight)

Self-Reflection Essay—You will write an essay in which you reflect on your academic journey, as well as project to your future aspiration. (25% weight)

Academic Integrity

Students in this class are expected to demonstrate scholarly behavior and academic honesty in the use of intellectual property. A scholar is expected to be punctual, prepared, and focused; meaningful and pertinent participation is appreciated. Examples of academic dishonesty include but are not limited to: Turning in work as original that was used in whole or part for another course and/or professor; turning in another person's work as one's own; copying from professional works or internet sites without citation; collaborating on a course assignment, examination, or quiz when collaboration is forbidden.

Academic Ethics: It is the responsibility of students and instructors to help maintain scholastic integrity at the University by refusing to participate in or tolerate scholastic dishonesty. Any student who represents someone else's work as his or her own will automatically receive a zero for that assignment, which will likely result in a failure for the course. Plagiarism can be purposeful or inadvertent, but either results in an unacceptable and unethical academic performance. Plagiarism will most likely result in a failure for the course.

A Writer's Reference: I strongly recommend all students own and utilize Diana Hacker's A Writer's Reference. It is a sound, credible, and particularly usable stylebook.
